

Slate Quarrying in and around Maenclochog

The Rosebush quarries

A windmill, sited on Pen Felin-wynt (circled) was used to provide power to pumps(?) or other machinery in the Rosebush Quarry. It is visible on the skyline in the photograph (left) but was blown down in September 1903 (letter above).

Wind power to the quarry